ADVANCED COURSES

The advanced courses will be offered on much the same plan as in 1919-20, the actual instructional period opening on Monday, February 7th, and closing on Friday, April 29th. A mimeographed circular, descriptive of the work offered, was distributed widely to possible candidates in the summer.

The School is glad to announce that by reason of arrangements with the New York School of Social Work and with Columbia University, advanced students who wish to supplement their library school study with other instruction bearing upon the work for which they are preparing themselves, can secure relevant courses and have them credited up to a certain point toward the Library School diploma. This will make it possible, for example, for a student who wishes to specialize in administrative subjects, to secure courses in management, or in public administration; or for one who plans to conduct an historical or an economics library to pursue study bearing on these fields. Fitness of the student to enter a particular course is prerequisite, and all courses taken elsewhere are subject to the approval of the Faculty.

OPEN COURSES

Parallel with the advanced courses, a series of open courses will be offered in February, March, and April. Circulars descriptive of these are available and may be had upon application to the School.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON SOCIAL HOURS

The informal gatherings on Wednesday afternoons at 4 o'clock are being continued this year, with occasional author's readings and addresses by persons of literary prominence. Alumni who find it convenient to do so are urged to drop in for these hours whenever possible.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The list of officers, in which there have been some changes since the election in June, is as follows: President, Forrest B. Spaulding; First vice-president, Philena A. Dickey; Second vice-president, Minerva E. Grimm; Treasurer, Grace L. Cook; Secretary, Susan M. Molleson.

EXCERPTS FROM RECENT LETTERS

"The Ohio Alumni Association surely did have a good time at its reunion dinner on the fourth of June, and we talked up more publicity plans for the school... I am sorry that we are not to have some more N. Y. P. L. people in Cleveland this year, but next year may bring us better luck." — Rosalie A. Brooker, Certificate 1919, Librarian, Alliance Branch, Cleveland Public Library.

"I spent mine [vacation] in the city of Mexico, which is a quiet place now that Obregon has everything his own way." — Kate Feuille, Certificate 1919, Librarian, Medical Department, University of Texas, Galveston.

"I have accepted a position as head librarian in the San Diego High School... San Diego has a fine high school of 2300 pupils." — Florence Behr, Diploma 1918.

"You will be pleased to hear of what I have been doing since my arrival in Peking. I came up at the invitation of the Peking Government Normal College, to give a series of lectures for the Librarians' Training Institute. This institute was the first of its kind in China. About eighty students, librarians, teachers, and others interested in the library movement, attended the institute. Among those who were present, there were seven girls... I have also brought along with me three of the students of the Library School... Mr. Thomas C. S. Hu has taken the remaining five students to Shanghai." — S. T. F. Seng, Diploma 1916, Associate Librarian, Boone University Library, Wuchang, China.
